Issued by Textbook Rental:

His 3110 (33507) provides a narrative of British history from the Revolution of 1688-89 through the upheavals of the late 20th century. It stresses the social, economic, and even religious bases of struggles about parliamentary democracy and imperial domination. It also provides a chance to understand the contemporary issues in Britain from the seventeenth to the twenty-first centuries by using primary documents.
Goals:
1. Develop an understanding of the basic narrative of modern British history (esp. 1689-1989)
2. Compare/contrast the British basic narrative to periods and concepts of modern European/World history: industrial revolution, political revolution and stability, partisanship and parliamentary democracy, urbanization, social class, war, decolonialism
3. Relate ideas to action, the intellectual elite to socio-economic realities in the 18th-20th centuries
4. Use and analyze primary sources and secondary works on modern British history
5. Three themes:
   a. Industrious Britain and Social Class
   b. The Rise and Fall of Imperial Britain
   c. The Experience of War (the relation between the home front and the trenches)

An enhanced version of this syllabus is at http://ux1.eiu.edu/~nekey/syllabi/brit.htm. The readings should be done before and the book (esp. Equiano, Graves, or Wing) brought to class on the day listed. Dickens is long and should be begun well before days we discuss the novel. Any revisions to the syllabus will be limited, will be for pedagogical reasons (changes in due dates, readings, specific essay questions, review sheets), and will be announced in class in advance and posted on d2l.

Everyone will write three typed, double-spaced essays: (1) one analyzing selected counties and their MPs during the unreformed period (1660-1832) (Presentation & 4 pages, 10%) (2) one analyzing life in the Atlantic Empire using Equiano’s Narrative (5-6 pages, 15%); (3) an assessment of Graves’s value as a source and historian, comparing Good-bye with The Times on one topic (5-6 pages, 15%). The essays should be typed, double-spaced, and use a clear and consistent form of referencing (see preferred citation guide, http://ux1.eiu.edu/~nekey/citate.htm). The essays are brief, but should be focused and thoughtful.

For exams you must purchase (about 29 cents each at the Union bookstore), sign, and turn in all three exam booklets on or before 12 Sept, that is, all three before the first exam. There will be two mid-terms (12% each), and a final exam (15%). The mid-terms and final will consist of short-answer, identifications, short-essay comparisons, analysis of excerpts from the assigned primary sources, and related essay questions. Mapping and political narratives may either be included in mid-terms or separately as part of your participation grade (notice and particulars will be given). (Anyone with a documented disability should let me know by the second week of class so that we can make appropriate accommodations.) The history department has graduate students available for tutoring (CH 2726). And I will talk to you about history virtually anytime.

Participation (contribution to discussions in-class and online, occasional in-class writing/quizzes) is required, and includes one presentation on Unreformed Britain early in the course, and another on one aspect of British life during wartime using The Times/British Periodicals Online; and Wing’s selection from Mass Observation at the end (15%). [The Wing/Mass Observation will also be the focus of one section of the final exam.] Extra credit (up to 5% of final grade) can be obtained by an optional extra essay on the final. More than three absences will adversely affect your participation grade. Of course, your grade as a whole will be lowered if your absences fall on the date of an assigned debate. (There is no make-up for the final. Other make-ups are discouraged and are at the professor’s discretion.) Any revisions to this syllabus will be announced well in advance and posted on my website.

Participation needs focus. Class etiquette: silence phones; refrain from texting; keep internet use focused on our common subject; if you arrive late, simply seat yourself with a minimum of fuss. Basically, try not to distract others or yourself. We all can consult with class-desk neighbors, laptops, and phones: as long as it is related to what we are doing at the time.
