Purpose of the Course
The university catalogue describes English 1000 as a course in the improvement of fundamental writing abilities. Students will gain practice and instruction in developing and organizing ideas; in using words, sentences and paragraphs effectively; and in acquiring and strengthening skills for revising and editing prose.

Requirements
1. Read the assigned material by the assigned date and participate in class discussions and in-class writing exercises.
2. Write and revise five essays on various topics.
3. Complete several shorter writing assignments.
4. Submit at least one essay for class critique.
5. Submit a portfolio of work at the end of the semester.

Grade Breakdown
In order to pass the class, you will need to have shown me that you are ready for the kind of writing that English 1001 demands. You will need to have submitted ALL five essays. I will also need evidence of your ability to revise effectively. Although this class is Pass/Fail, I will occasionally grade essays and even shorter assignments to give you a sense of what to expect in future composition courses.

Computer Labs
Class will meet in the computer lab—3120—every other week, beginning with the first week.
Late Papers
I don’t accept late papers unless there is a documented emergency. If possible, you must speak to me about possible extensions before the due date.

Format for Papers
Type your final assignments on standard-size paper. Double-space. NO extra spaces between paragraphs, please, and NO oversized fonts. In the upper left-hand corner of the first page, type your name, my last name, course, and date. No cover page, please.

Plagiarism
I adhere strictly to the English Department policy on plagiarism: Any teacher who discovers an act of plagiarism has the right and the responsibility to impose upon the guilty student an appropriate penalty, up to and including a grade of F for the assigned essay and a grade of F for the course, and to report the incident to the Judicial Affairs Office. Plagiarism is defined as “The appropriation or imitation of the language, ideas, and/or thoughts of another author, and representation of them as one’s original work” (Random House Dictionary of the English Language)

Writing Center
The Writing Center, located in room 3110 of Coleman Hall, gives you the opportunity to talk with a tutor about your writing, especially if you are having problems beginning a paper or know that you are weak in certain areas.

NOTES: It is your responsibility to contact me or a fellow student to find out what you’ve missed, including any handouts or assignment changes.
