

Assignment 10. The Edited Collection or Serial Source. Find 6-8 useful articles (if one-to-two paragraph items; 5 if they are multi-page articles) drawn from at least one of the following. If you cannot find your subject, email me through WebCT and I will send you a collection of letters from the period. Cut-and-paste a bit of each article followed by a citation, using Chicago Manual of Style, footnote form. Then write a paragraph or two (250 words) with quotes from the articles making an argument relating to your subject. Due April 4.

Draw from the following (unless mentioned, all through <http://www.library.eiu.edu/eresources/databases/websites.asp?subcode=AHI>):

1. American Periodicals (search pre-1766)
<http://search.proquest.com/americanperiodicals/advanced?accountid=10705>
2. British Periodicals (search, then update to pre-1760 on right)
<http://search.proquest.com/britishperiodicals/advanced?accountid=10705>
 - a. Example: Ottoman;
 - b.

3. Pennsylvania Gazette (defaults to search a number of periodicals, search dates 1700 to 1766, I don't think it goes back)
 - a. Example: beaver; The Pennsylvania Gazette, May 6, 1731

- b. “RUN away from John Owen, Sheriff of Chester, an Indian Man who went by the Name of Ham, but his right Name is Jacob Tomson; he is a broad set Man, full faced, with long black Hair. He hath an old brown Coat, a pair of old Trowsers, old white Stockings, old Shoes, and an old Beaver Hat; he speaks pretty good English, being New England born; Whoever secures the said Man so that the Sheriff aforesaid may have him again, shall have Thirty Shillings Reward, and reasonable Charges paid by John Owen.”
4. London Gazette (not through Booth, <http://www.london-gazette.co.uk/>; use advanced search <http://www.london-gazette.co.uk/search>, set dates from 1660 to 1765, put in a day and month as well for beginning and end date; sort by date of publication; click on pdf to see the material)
- a. Example: pirate; London Gazette no. 5575, 21 September 1717
- b.

Bermudas, July 30.

WE have received Letters from Boston in New-England, which advise, that on the 27th of April last, a Pirate-Ship of 26 Guns, commanded by one Bellamy, took near Cape Codd, a Merchant-Man bound for New-England from the Maderas. The Pirates taking on board them the Master and all the Crew, except one Man and a Boy, put on board her seven of their own Men, with Order to keep Company with them. The Pirates in both Ships entertained themselves so plentifully with Madera Wine, that they all got drunk; and the Pirate-Ship ran upon a Shoal in a Place called Noffett's Bay to the Southward of the said Cape: On board of her were 120 Men, of whom only two were saved. The Man and Boy in the Ship which had been taken, seeing the seven Pirates who were put on board her drunk and asleep on the Decks, took that Opportunity to stand in for the Land, and ran her fast aground. The Pirates were secured by the Inhabitants, and carried to Boston. Bellamy's Ship was called the Widow; he had taken her in March last from one Captain Prince belonging to Bristol, as he was turning up to the Bahama-Islands bound home from Jamaica.
